ANNOUNCEMENT.

WASHINGTON, June 11. A Loreda special says a counter-brought news yesterday to the effect that Col. Alesia and 150 government troops attacked 200 revolutionists under Gorra Ayala, at a place called Los Ladrones, forty miles north of New Laredo, and after a severe engagement completely routed them, making many prisoners and capturing arms, horses, etc. Many were reported killed and wounded on both sides, but details are wanting. There was great rejoicing at New Laredo on receipt of the news.

Potter's Letter and the Subpoena.

WASHINGTON, June 11. Following is the text of the letter of Chairman Potter to Senator Matthews, delivered with the subpoena:

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, WASHINGTON, June 10, 1878.

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge your letter of the 8th inst., declining to accept the invitation of the committee of investigation of the House of Representatives to appear before them. I have laid your letter before the committee but they have not felt at liberty to dispense with your attendance and have directed that a subpoena be issued to you by resolution, of which I enclose you a copy, but there is no purpose of requiring your attendance at a time that may interfere with your official duties as senator, and there will be on the part of the committee every disposition to meet your convenience in respect to the time of your attendance.

I have the honor to be very respectfully your obedient servant.

CLARKSON N. POTTER, Chairman, etc. To Hon. Stanley Matthews.

The subpoena is dated of day before yesterday, and is to the effect that you appear before the committee on the 13th inst., at 10 o'clock, at the city of Washington, D. C., to testify before them.

To J. G. Thompson, Sergeant at Arms, or his Special Messenger.

You are hereby commanded to appear before Hon. Stanley Matthews to be examined and appear before the special investigating committee of the House of Representatives, of which Hon. Clarkson N. Potter is chairman, in their chamber in the city of Washington, D. C., on the 13th inst., at 10 o'clock, to testify before them.

Witness your hand and seal this 10th day of June, 1878.

CLARKSON N. POTTER, Chairman, etc.

WASHINGTON, June 11. There was a good deal of confusion this morning in regard to the bill of the House of Representatives to amend the act of March 3, 1877, to provide for the payment of the interest on the public debt.

The bill was introduced by Mr. Aldrich, and passed by a vote of 117 yeas to 57 nays.

Mr. Aldrich moved to increase the appropriation for the Chicago canal, and it was agreed to by a vote of 117 yeas to 57 nays.

Mr. Aldrich moved to increase the appropriation for the Cincinnati custom house from $300,000 to $500,000. Rejected 73 yeas to 84 nays.

The appropriation for the building at Grand Rapids, Wis., was increased from $300,000 to $475,000.

Mr. Atkins yielded to the two preceding amendments, stating that the principle of the bill had been broken by the action of the House in regard to the Cincinnati custom house. By its action the House had exercised its right when buildings were nearly completed a sufficient amount should be appropriated for their completion.

Mr. Blood opposed the idea of relieving the labor of the country by making large appropriations for public buildings. Labor can only be relieved by repealing the infamous reclamation law; by paying 50 cents in greenbacks; and by retiring the national bank circulation. If that were not enough, he would issue greenbacks to an amount sufficient to meet the wants and necessities of trade; even if it would require $1,000,000,000 to do so.

Mr. Cole offered an amendment increasing the appropriation for the St. Louis custom house from $30,000 to $40,000. Rejected.

The committee then rose and the House took a recess, the evening session to be for consideration of the report of the committee on naval affairs.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, June 11. A large number of bills on the calendar, not objected to, were passed.

Senator Morrill introduced an amendment to the sundry civil appropriation bill, appropriating $250,000 for a building for a national museum and $150,000 for a grand staircase to the terrace on the west front of the capital. Rejected.

Among the bills passed were a bill to authorize Kansas to exercise its right in repelling invasions and suppressing Indian hostilities; a bill to provide for the sale of a portion of Ft. Leavenworth military reservation in Kansas; a bill to provide additional regulations for homestead and pre-emption entries on public land. It provides for the publication of notices of intention to enter agricultural lands under the law named.

The Senate then resumed consideration of unfinished business: the river and harbor appropriation bill, and appropriations for the improvement of various rivers were increased.

The public debt statement for May shows that $8,000,000 of four per cent bonds were taken during the month, or an average of over a quarter of a million a year. It also shows that the coin balance has increased during the month from $156,037.23 to $189,708,021. Deducting coin certificates, there is now in the vaults at Washington $136,884,381—a very handsome sum with which to begin resumption

Gen Sherman excused himself from attending the recent meeting of the Army of the Potomac in a letter, saying "The present war of congress against the army forces, keeps me here to defend the small heroic remnant of regulars who are surrounded by Indians, and the dangers of the most unpleasant kind, and these look to me to grow more and more serious. There is now a bill in congress which, and the plea of economy, may force, and strip our profession of all claim to respect."

Notwithstanding the advance in civilization the last thirty years have recorded no less than thirty attempts to assassinate a ruler. Among these attempts are six upon the life of Napoleon III, four upon Emperor William, two upon the czar of Russia, one each upon Victoria, Francis Joseph, emperor of Austria, Victor Emmanuel, Queen Isabella of Spain, King Amadeus of Spain, Frederick William of Prussia, and the last too successful attempt on the life of President Lincoln.

During the electoral count the position of Senator Conkling was uncertain. Rumors spread rapidly that he had sold out to Tilden, and for several days it was generally believed. Just now the news from Washington is that Senator Conkling is secretly asserting the fact, committee in endeavors to rack the title of President Hayes. The simple fact that rumors of such treachery are afloat in regard to the New York senator shows what kind of a man he is. We wonder whether hereafter the "stalwart" and office-holding republicans will measure Hayes' republicanism by the Conkling standard. Truly President Hayes is fortunate in his opposition.

George Washington was a sentimental civil service reformer. At one time during his administration there were two conspicuous candidates for a certain office. One of the candidates was an intimate personal friend of Washington and the other was a bitter political opponent. Very much to the surprise of every one the latter was appointed. When asked for an explanation of his conduct, Washington said "The position in question requires for its proper administration, a real business capacity. This my friend does not possess. The other candidate has it. My friend I welcome to my home, I cherish in my heart, anything that George Washington can do for him will be gladly done. But this appointment is to be made by the president of the United States, and I am therefore bound to disregard every personal consideration, and remember only my duty to my office and the highest good of the public service.

THE STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE
The state central committee will meet today in pursuance to the call which we publish at the head of our editorial page. The committee have but little important business to come before it except to prepare for the coming state convention. Present indications are that the state convention will meet in this city, somewhere in August. We assure the state committee the county seat of the banner republican county of the state will give the convention the city reception.
The democratic state committee at their meeting, did more than the usual work. It was so excited by the possibility of the removal of Hayes that it adopted a series of resolutions. We hardly think it will be wise for the state committee to adopt any resolutions as they may hamper the action of the party in August. The delegates will then come directly from the people and will express more fully their opinions. If, however, the committee think it best to make any utterances we must they will use no ambiguous expressions. The prospects of a republican victory this fall are good. We have no doubt but the action of the committee will be wise and conducive to the best interests of the party.

The following correspondence shows that President Hayes knew nothing about the real character of Anderson when he signed the commission of Anderson as consul to Funchal and that he revoked the commission as soon as he did.

GOVERNMENT PROOF ROOM,
WASHINGTON, D. C., May 26 1877
To Hon. R. B. Hayes, President
As a friend of yours and one who earnestly desires that your whole administration may be eminently successful I ask you to withhold the appointment of Jas. L. Anderson as consul to Funchal who falsely represents himself as coming from Ohio. He is blowing around among his acquaintances in my presence that he will "feather his nest" while he is in office.

The general reputation he has among all that know him is that he is totally lacking in one redeeming quality. Who ever recommended him didn't know him. His testimony before the Louisiana committee is a sufficient condemnation of the man, as he tried to sell out to the democrats and did everything that was low and dishonorable. I will see you further about it, if you wish, and show you and give proof of what I say. Yours truly,
J. A. STRAIGHT.

By direction of President Hayes this was endorsed

Then to make sure that a scandal should not be appointed the president sends the following note to Secretary Evans two days after the commission was signed and on the same day that the complaint was made against Anderson

EXECUTIVE MANSION,
WASHINGTON, D. C., May 26, 1877
DEAR MR. SECRETARY: If the commission which the president signed on the 24th inst. for Jas. E. Anderson, as consul of the United States at Funchal, has not been delivered to the appointee, the president will be pleased to have you retain possession of it until further inquiry is made to Mr. Anderson's character and insinuations.
Very truly yours,
W. K. ROOSEVELT, Private Secretary to the Secretary of State, President

During the last four years the people of California have been speculating wildly in mining stocks. The immense yield of the Comstock lode in 1874-5 was the immediate cause of the wide-spread speculation. It is estimated that nearly 75,000 people in California invested in the mining stocks. As the population is only about 600,000, this would make one in every eight of the people interested in these speculations.

To show how unprofitable these speculations have been we will give a few statistics which have recently been published by California papers. Of the 222 different mining stocks which have been sold by the San Francisco boards, only 47 have ever paid dividends, 15 only have paid dividends in the last two years and 12 only are paying dividends now. Of the 222 who have drawn $10,000,000 more in assessments from their stockholders than they have paid dividends.

The California and Consolidated Virginia have paid immense dividends, but they have gone into the pockets of four men. These bonanza mines have now nearly ceased to pay. A few years ago the stock of the California was quoted at $800 a share but it can now be bought for $21. It is now an open question whether it will pay to work further on the Comstock lode. Shafus have already been sunk at a great expense to a distance of over 2000 feet. The mines are now worked at a very great expense. New York and Boston have heavily invested in these stocks and will probably lose largely. But the loss will be heaviest in California and is now causing great commercial depression.

Although these successful speculations will probably deter cautious business men from investing money in mines, and hence have some injurious effects on our mining stocks in this state yet on the whole we think the effect will be advantageous. Mining is carried on in this state on good business principles. There are no such fictitious values placed on our mines as are placed on the Nevada mines. Our methods will stand out in clear contrast from the dishonest, unbusiness-like methods of California speculators.

The result will be that careful business men will invest money in Colorado mines in preference to any other section of the country. The investments which have been made in Colorado mining property during the last two years have been more uniformly successful than those made in business in the east. The day for speculation and cheating in mining stocks in this state has passed. The attention of capitalists is now being drawn to the rich mines of the San Juan Chum can be bought there for a few hundred dollars which would have been sold for many thousands if discovered two years ago. If figures are taken, it is not far distant when Colorado mines will pay more largely than those of any state in the union.

We are happy to announce that Rev. C. C. Salter of Denver, whose lecture on Pompeii last week gave such great satisfaction to those who heard it, will give two more illustrated lectures in Unity Hall in a short time. The time and subjects will be announced in a few days. Save your money for something that is instructive as well as intensely interesting. It is prophetic that the lecture on Pompeii will be given for the benefit of those who "let their light shine also for others." It again.

It is a good thing for both pastor and people to adopt, at least a part of the "one mission a day" plan, giving up the evening to service, in which the people largely take part. An "exchange" between the pastor and people is wonderfully beneficial to both, sometimes. The evening service at the Congregational church here for some weeks past been of this nature. On last Sabbath evening the Women's Missionary society connected with the church presented a rich program of mission items, letters from missionaries, etc., to a crowded house. Mrs. Pickel, president of the society, conducted the service. One interesting feature was the reading of letters from Dr. Palmer, now at Trinidad, and from Mr. Sibley, who went out to Liberia last fall to a Faith Mission at Elphyoon, India. The program which was published in last Saturday's Daily was carried out to the letter.

COLORADO SPRINGS, June 11.

To the Editor of the Gazette: In yesterday's DAILY the M. E. church of this city is charged with a lack of consideration for others, and with doing an unfair thing in advertising an excursion to Grand Canon. With all due deference to Mr. D. Russ Wood, the author of the article referred to, it seems to us that a person conversant with the facts could not conscientiously have written such an accusation. The facts are these: Several weeks ago the trustees of the M. E. church advertised an excursion to Veta Pass. In a few days thereafter there appeared a similar announcement by the Library Association, their trip to take place about the 1st of June some fifteen days after ours. In addition to this the Methodists were requested to postpone their trip as it might conflict with the arrangements of the library people. The Methodists consented to their own detriment, even though the library association kept its notice running in the papers, and that too without having completed its negotiations with the railroad company. This statement of fact is made in order that the public may be able to judge which party, if either, has acted unfairly.

While the officers of the M. E. Church knew that the announcement of the library association trip did interfere in some measure with the success of their excursion to the Pass, they, after consultation, judged that our announcement of the Canyon excursion would not militate against one to Veta Pass.

We feel that the article in yesterday's Gazette is unsupported by fact, and does us an injustice. But that there may not be a shadow of reason for charging us with inconsideration or unfairness, we hereby withdraw the announcement fixing the date of our excursion, in order that we may not in any manner interfere with the most complete success of the library enterprise. Yours, respectfully, COMMITTEE.

Deaf-Mute Institute.

2500 Per Cent. Interest.

The annual examination at this institute commenced on Monday and closed yesterday. A number of ladies and gentlemen visited the school yesterday, all of whom were surprised and pleased at the proficiency which the pupils had attained. The history of deaf-mute education is a most interesting one, and in the production of the theory many of the most scientific minds of ancient and modern times have been enlisted. In the earliest ages the deaf were considered incapable of receiving education, and by the Mosaic law they were merely protected from wanton insult. The first attempt to educate these unfortunate was made in A. D. 735, since which time it has made rapid strides, till at the present time it seems to have reached perfection. The principal method of teaching the mute is by the sign language, but of late years much attention has been given to what is termed lip-reading and teaching them to speak. This mode, although a difficult one, has been very successful, and it has been estimated that about fifty per cent. of the mutes can acquire great proficiency in speaking; it, however, has not been adopted as yet in the institution in this city, for the reason that an additional corps of teachers would be necessary. The educational department is under the management of Prof. J. P. Ralston and Dr. J. Kennedy, the former having charge of the advanced and the latter of the primary departments. During the past year twenty-seven pupils have been receiving instruction in this institution, and with such marked success as to be a very flattering recognition of the ability of their instructors. The domestic department has been under the management of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Kennedy, the love which the children all bear them, being a sufficient guarantee of their success in this department. Taken altogether, Colorado Springs should be proud of this institution, which is doing so much to elevate this class of humanity. It is no longer conceded that the mute should be a nonentity, but on the contrary there are many branches of trade open to him, which, by means of education, he is enabled to enter; for instance in the printing department of this institution, there are four boys and one girl, any one of whom we understand, would be capable of earning good wages as compositors. The best appearance of the pupils will substantiate this statement. What the institute needs is more room; and we hope the measure will be adopted by which plans additions may be made. The school closes this morning and the children will proceed to their respective homes to enjoy a three month's vacation.

The following ladies and gentlemen arrived at the signal station, Pike's Peak, yesterday: Dr. H. I. Porter and wife, Miss I. Porter, Meadville, Pa., and John M. Weaver, of Fairmount, Pa. Mr. Geo. F. Whitehead, of the Denver Democrat, made a pleasant call at our office yesterday. If any of our readers must take a democratic paper, we think the Denver Democrat will do the least evil.

Real Estate Transfers.

A. L. Lawton to W. A. Cuthell, commencing at a point 20 feet n. of s. e. cor. of block 247, running thence n. 240 feet, thence w. 120 feet, thence s. 240 feet, thence e. 120 feet.

The Denver News of yesterday alluded to a very fortunate transaction in Denver and Rio Grande railroad stocks and bonds. The "News" obtained its information from the Chief, which, it is needless to say, was not very accurate. The facts are these: Col. W. H. Greenwood, of Canon City, thought he would play a game of bluff. While the railroad was in progress at Canon City, he offered a gentleman interested in the Denver and Rio Grande railroad $10,000 of stock and $10,000 of bonds for $7,000. The gentleman was not prepared to purchase the stocks and bonds at the time. Whereupon Col. Greenwood immediately published as widely as possible the news that parties interested in the Denver and Rio Grande railroad would not buy their own stock and bonds at the tremendous discount at which it was offered. But very much to the surprise of Col. Greenwood, the gentleman to whom the stock was first offered accepted the offer and became the fortunate possessor of $40,000 in D. & R. G. stock and $14,000 in bonds for $7,000 cash.

The purchaser sold the bonds alone last week for $9,325.50. Deducting $50.07, the expenses incident to the sale, we find there was a profit of $2,312.43 in cash and $40,000 in D. & R. G. railroad stock. This stock is not quoted, but the Denver Times stated in its issue of the 10th instant that it had advanced fifteen per cent. during the last few days. If the stock should be valued at fifteen per cent. of its par value, which would be an extremely low valuation, it would be worth $56,000, making a net profit out of the transaction of $8,312.43. This is a very fair interest on $7,000 for about fifteen days. Col. Greenwood does not play a bluff game any more.

Colorado College.

The public exercises of Colorado College at the close of the college year were held in Unity Chapel and were very largely attended and much enjoyed. The following is the PROGRAMME.

Prayer By Rev. Prof. T. N. Haskell, of Denver.
Music Piano Duet, Morgenblatter Waltzes (Strauss), Mr. W. B. Manning and Miss Nellie Kerr.
Declaration Evils of a Debauched Caricature (Daniel Webster), Mr. J. C. Pearce.

Recitation Hyman to Mont Blanc (S. T. Coleridge), Mr. L. A. Kimball.
Dramatic Fragment, Edgemoor, Mr. Carl (S. T. Coleridge).
Recitation Words and their Uses (Frank Clive), Master C. B. Selmonridge.
Music The Moonlight Sonata (Beethoven), Mr. W. B. Manning.
Reading A Legend of Deceit (Adelphi Proctor), Miss Hattie Wilson.
Declaration The Revolutionary Ruling (Buchanan Read), Master C. H. McCall.
Declaration Essay on L. Fayette (Edward Everett), Mr. W. W. Nichols.
Oration Subject, Enthusiasm, Mr. L. A. Kimball.
Music Schubert's Hohe Sonnet H. A. Mr. W. B. Manning.
Dialogue The Golden Rule (John F. Kennedy), Mr. A. B. Sanders, Carl (S. T. Coleridge).
Fable The Anglo Saxons, and what they have bequeathed to us, Mr. W. B. Manning.
Declaration Idols, (Wendell Phillips), Mr. E. B. Carter.

The opening prayer by Rev. T. N. Haskell was very appropriate. The program was received with great satisfaction. The execution of Miss Nellie Kerr was wonderful. We might say here that Mr. Manning deserves great credit for the musical part of the exhibition. The music selected was of a high order and appropriate to the occasion, and was much enjoyed.

The declamation by J. C. Pearce was not only well rendered but was an excellent selection for these days. Should the greenback party be aggressive this fall Mr. Pearce could do excellent service by taking the stump.

The well written essay by F. W. Tuckerman was a little too abstract and spiritual to be very popular, but was listened to with close attention. Such subjects may be used for essays by men like Ralph Waldo Emerson, but hardly appropriate for school exhibitions.

Lura Kimball's reading from Coleridge was excellent. The wonderfully descriptive parts of this poem were read with great force and beauty of expression.

The Eulogy on Sumner was given with earnestness by C. H. Brewster.

Master C. B. Selmonridge won the hearts of all by his first effort at public speaking. The declamation by C. H. Mellen carried out Shakespeare's maxim "to suit the action to the word." In the last part of the declamation the speaker was so low in his piece, that the audience, who were formed to the old church, listening to the brave patriotic words of the honest man of God.

W. W. Nichols spoke with dignity and effect. His voice was the most pleasant of any of the speakers.

The original oration on Enthusiasm, by Levi Ratliff, was thoughtful and earnest.

W. B. Manning's Essay was on a very interesting and instructive subject.

Miss Hattie Wilson's reading was a little indistinct, but the interest in the selection was unbroken. The honorable place on the programme was held by E. B. Curtis. He showed marked declamatory talent, but the effect of his speaking was marred by too much "mouthing," a defect which young speakers are prone to possess. The declamation was begun with too much emphasis. Mr. Curtis can easily correct his faults and make an exceptionally brilliant speaker.

The exercises as a whole were very successful. They reflected credit upon Prof. Sheldon and his able associates. Prof. Sheldon has wielded a marked influence in raising the moral tone of the college. We have reason to be proud of the college in our midst, and we trust that this institution of learning will be properly fostered, and appreciated by our citizens.
